Recruitment Consultant - General Insurance - City - £30000 - £32000 + commission

My client is recruitment business operating since 2006 and specialising in providing recruiting solutions for Professional Services.

Their London office opened in 2012 and has grown from strength to strength since. They pride themselves on professionalism, service and delivery and have a consultative approach to recruitment. They live by their values which provide the framework for how they conduct business and they do not target their staff on activity but very much focus on results.

With experience within the General Insurance, Financial Services, Legal and Accountancy & Finance industries, they are always looking for talented Consultants to join their growing team.

They do however have an urgent hire for a Recruitment Consultant to join their General Insurance team. They can offer a hot, permanent desk which billed over £200k in the past 12 months so it's a real opportunity to hit the ground running.

What they can offer:

- A marketing team who will provide you with pre-qualified leads
- A team of administrators who will allow you to spend time on building relationships with your clients and candidates
- A hands on leadership team who provide support when needed
- In house training and a defined career development framework
- A database of qualified candidates
- A large number of preferred supplier status with key clients
- Competitive salary and benefits package
